PA NEW OBSERVES

Christmas is over and the pocketbook flat, but we had a good time while it lasted.

The next thing in order will be New Year resolutions, something mighty easy to make but very hard to keep.

Are you planning to keep a diary during the coming year? Many people have no trouble in starting, but get discouraged with the upkeep.

An eagle-eyed citizen reports to Pa New that he saw an auto on East Washington street with a 1914 license plate on one side and a 1939 on the other, the difference probably representing the age of the car.

Owing to important changes made in the Social Security law, payments will begin next January 1, 1940, instead of in 1942, as originally planned. Benefits for insured workers will begin at 65.

The Indians are not so dumb, after all. The Putes of California have tacked a clause to their tribal constitution which provides that "visits from relatives" shall be limited to 14 days at any one time and shall not exceed 30 days in any one calendar year.

After years of observation and thoughtful consideration, Pa New has come to the conclusion that a woman who takes her husband with

Snow Is Delayed But Christmas Is Enjoyed By Entire Community

There wasn't any snow, not much anyway, and there wasn't much of the old-fashioned weather Christmas about it, but it was a success as a Christmas Day and that's all that counts. Weather conditions may have been different than your grandfather was used to, but the spirit of the day was just as fine, there were just as many presents put out as usually are, and after picking our way out through the living room today over baby buggies, drums, builder sets, handkerchiefs, and oranges, that have been tramped upon, we're inclined to give the day 100 per cent.

The two day holiday was a break for everybody. Clerks of the stores were able to rest up over Sunday and really enjoy Christmas for a change, visitors from far places didn't have to worry about getting home the day they came and taking it as a whole the day was the kind of one you wanted.

In the churches opportunity was given to hold Christmas services without holding them upon Christmas Day. Sunday morning practically every church in the county held Christmas services, a number of churches held vespers at four in the afternoon and a number of others held midnight services.

the ever-growing list.

Eastern Pennsylvania and western

Murphy Says He's Not Speaking For Anybody Else

Third Term Statements Are Only His Personal Opinion
Says Attorney General

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Dec. 26.—Attorney-General Frank Murphy today said statements attributed to him regarding President Roosevelt's third term aspirations could in no way be considered anything but personal opinion.

Commenting on reports he "predicted" the president would run for a third term "only in case of some dire national emergency" the attorney general said:

"The president alone will make any decision as to his third term candidate."

"I never say I am misquoted, but my comment on the third term was this:

"For the country's good I hope he will run again, but I can't conceive of his doing it unless in case of some dire national emergency."

Murphy refused to comment on the liberal party convention called for by Interior Secretary Ickes or the statement he was reported as saying he did not want a supreme court appointment among his Christmas gifts. He added:

"The supreme court appointment is the highest honor any man could receive."

Christmas was made more enjoy-

Gathering at 10:30 o'clock, the children enjoyed several reels of films of the type that kiddies like given a treat of pop corn balls and candy.

Between films, Christmas carols were sung quite lustily by the children, led by Miss Dorothy Patch, music instructor at the Croton

Officers Sigler, Jones and Alliger of the city police force were present to aid in taking care of the Alcatraz, sought a new legal avenue

Brest was sentenced to a life term

HUGE SHELL HOLES LEFT BY BOMBING

(International News Service)

HELSINKI, Dec. 26.—For the first time in the war Russia's biggest artillery came into action today, throwing shells in to Viipuri from emplacements 25 miles away, while the Finns retaliated with a thrust deep into Soviet territory.

Tossed back repeatedly below the Mannerheim line of Finnish defenses on the Carelian Isthmus, the Russians brought up big guns capable of hurling explosives across the line into the city.

Huge Holes

Shell holes as large as 12 feet in diameter and six feet deep were blasted in the frozen earth during the post-Christmas bombardment, but damage was slight and casualties were few.

Viipuri—also known as Viborg, Finland's second largest city, had been evacuated by nearly all its people in advance of the Russian invasion.

Smoke arose from numerous burning wooden buildings and fire engines dashed about all Christmas night while the shelling increased in intensity.

Airplanes in scores again flew over southern Finland, but military activity—save for the Finnish advance —was brought nearly to a standstill
by the increasingly cold weather.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

AVERTING HOLIDAY HAZARDS

Christmas holidays bring new problems to parents. School children are at home and their presence there for 10 days or so may add to confusion. After a few days they may grow very restless not knowing what to do with themselves.

Inevitably, at this time, there is more contention and quarrelling. Those who are old enough should be out-of-doors, but when they are new hazards face them. If there is ice or snow, many will be tempted to take their sleds into the streets. When we are wise, we will bring pressure to bear on our police department to rope off some streets for play and then see to it that our children do not expose their lives to traffic dangers elsewhere.

Provide Program

Let us provide a program for the holidays out-of-doors plan for hiking parties, skating, skiing, and coasting where it is safe. While we are welcome to let our children even at some personal sacrifice. In the house we can provide informal parties, with group games and constructive and creative work. We want our children to attract their playmates to our home. We need, therefore, to adapt ourselves to noises resulting from such wholesome fun, and it is no small task. Our children's health is endangered at this time. Most eat sweets too freely; with digestive disturbances following, and the number of colds increases. Contagious and infectious diseases are rapidly spread during the holidays and although it sometimes is a delicate matter, we should try to keep from our house other children who have colds or a slight illness. We can encourage caution in such matters in our neighbors by exercising due vigilance, in keeping our own children, when they have small ailments, from our neighbor's houses.

Give Them Work

Work out for your children a definite program of home responsibilities in such a way that they will know when their jobs are finished and be able to plan their play. Encourage them to find some time to read and surely a period each day for quiet and relaxation for their good and for the comforts of the rest of the family.

School children who have rather rigidly followed a routine of going to bed at a certain time will profit by the privilege of staying up a little longer than usual on several nights provided they are allowed to sleep late in the morning. Nevertheless the family happiness will be most secure if there is not much variation from the regular program.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. About the only way I can punish my sixteen year old daughter effectively is to refuse to talk to her for a few days. What do you think of the plan?

A. I think it is atrocious. While you might seem to get results from such procedure in a particular instance, see what damage you have done for your future relationship with your daughter. Nor can I see how you could live in peace for half an hour with all love and companionship cut off from your child. Please find some other way to chastise that daughter when you are sure you must, then close the matter forever. Try to get a little of the spirit of the divine as described in one of the Psalms: "As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us."

Hints On Etiquette

When giving a dinner for guests is it a good plan for the hostess to place some extra silver and napkins on a serving table or other handy place so that she can easily replace a dropped napkin or piece of silver which might be inadvertently used on a course leaving none for the one following.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE VERSUS UNCLE OTTO'S FAMOUS NOSE

HINTS AND DINTS

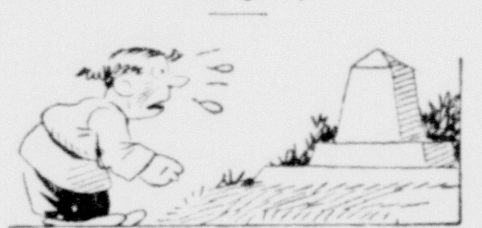

Sun sets tonight 4:30. Sun rises tomorrow 7:23.

We notice that even the Christmas cards sort of have an advertising flavor now.

The reason some people do not do their Christmas shopping early is because they do not see the newspaper advertising until a day or two before Christmas.

A fair trial is always given an unfair crook.

When there is an undertaker's car in front of a house there maybe nothing seriously wrong. He may be just delivering or taking away chairs for a card party.

A nick town is a place where the poor Smiths must buy a $1500 monument because the Joneses did.

Christmas gift: Pap gave his knee a wrench.

It's getting so these days no one knows the color of the original Christmas trees. Some are even fiery red. Spray does the trick.

TODAY'S STORVETTE

A benevolent old gentleman, walking along the street at night, came upon a befuddled young man on his hands and knees near a lamp post. He apparently was searching for something he had lost.

The benevolent old gentleman stopped.

"Lost something?" he asked. The beary-eyed young man looked up. "Losh fy's shents," he replied, whereupon the old gentleman joined in the search, poking about here and there with his cane. After five minutes of futile effort he asked:

"Just where did you lose the 50 cents?"

"Over there," burled the other, pointing to the opposite side of the street.

"Then why don't you look for it over there?" asked the old gentleman from whom much of the benevolence had by this time oozed out.

"Caush there ain't any light over there," replied the affected one as he continued his search.

The optimist is certain of going to heaven. The pessimist is certain he won't like it even if he gets there.

When a package is addressed to a man and wife, who should open it? Usually the one who sees it first.

When a Christmas package says on its cover "Don't Open Until Christmas" wonder how many do it?

PARTICULAR

A store clerk joined the army and gravitated into the supply department. Not being used to the exactness of reports required, he got the Dickens for not making out a paper in minute detail.

Shortly after he had taken the balling out, a soldier came in.

"You just issued me a pair of shoes and one lace is missing," said the man-at-arms.

"Which one?" asked the new student of army red tape.

"Put the Christmas cards away, Delia, until next year, so we won't miss anybody."

Wonder why some public dinners are called "turkey dinners" when most of the meal served is mashed potatoes.

THEN SHE KNEW

In a court an attorney was examining a feminine witness about the stairs in her home. The lawyer was having some difficulty making himself clear, and at last the judge intervened.

"What he wants to know madam, is how the stairs run in your house," said his honor.

The woman's face cleared. "Why didn't he say so?" she demanded. "When I'm downstairs they run up and when I'm upstairs they run down."

After Canada sends troops to a few more world wars in England, it will feel like knocking at our door and ask to be let in. It would be a great thing for Canada and the United States if there were no border line between.

As early as 9 a. m. Christmas morning (E. S. T.) Pap had a cigarette burn in his new Christmas lounge robe.

"I think the arresting officer must be mistaken," said the motorist in traffic court. "I wasn't going 100 miles an hour. In the first place the car won't go that fast, in the second place I wasn't in any hurry and in the third place I wasn't going anywhere."

"You are now," said the judge grimly. "Officer, conduct the gentleman to jail for 10 days."

Pap's Christmas gift to Mother was the book "Man, the Ruler" of the hoping she would consider him a little more complimentary light.

HAIRS ARE NUMERED

In a book published more than fifty years ago the author states that after a careful count he found that the number of hairs on a man's head, who is in the prime of life, was 89,280. If you doubt the book, count 'em! The book further states that if a girl's hair is only 18 inches in length, she will have about 133,920 feet of hair.

South Americans Are On Alert

Eager To Avoid Communist Woe

Stewart Recalls Old Incident

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—It's a fact that Communists do try to organize revolutions in American countries. I know from personal observation in one country. I saw it tried in the Argentine republic shortly after the World war and the establishment of the Bolshevik regime in Russia. Things were in a state of flux then everywhere. It was an opportune juncture for red agitation.

I was running a Yankee-language weekly paper in Buenos Aires at the time. I'd been there for several years, and was in the news business. So I came pretty near to having the low-down on the situation. It wasn't mere guess-work.

I'm told that Argentina has turned rather dictatorial recently. At that moment, however, its government was thoroughly democratic. Hipolito Irigoyen was president. He was a good liberal, but a moderate only. He was no autocrat and no violent radical. His administration was just reasonably middle-of-the-road. It was as free a government as we ever had, here in the United States.

Nevertheless, the republic had certain subversive elements. It has a scant 8,000,000 population. Buenos Aires is about the size of Chicago. Plus two or three other cities, its urban centers are too big for the sticks to support adequately. The balance is bad. City labor is underpaid.

Revolutionary-Minded

In the country there's an excess of tenancy. Spaniards and Italians are numerous, and they're temperamentally revolutionary. It was nobody's fault in particular. It simply was a survival of earlier accidental developments. President Irigoyen and a liberal congress were doing their best to improve the situation.

But the Communists were in a desperate rush. They cooked up a red governmental frame-work of their own. It was only imaginary, but they had it in writing.

I wouldn't guarantee that it was of Russian inspiration, directly. Maybe local Communists alone were responsible for it. They had the darned thing, at all events. The last time I saw it, longshoremen's strike broke out. It became a general strike. "New's our chance," cried the Communists—and got busy.

They attacked the Capitol, at one end of the Avenida de Mayo, and the Casa Rosada, at the other end, as our Capitol and White House are at the opposite ends of Pennsylvania avenue.

President Irigoyen was flabbergasted. His military aid, General della Piani, cut loose with his troops. For three days the battle raged up and down the Avenida de Mayo. To get from my place of business and back again I had to cross that Avenida. Believe me, I did it on the jump in such instances.

Three-Day Massacre

In those three days, according to official figures, 800 guys were officially killed on that thoroughfare. And that accounted only for those who formally were brought in and registered in the morgue.

Later I met, in Brazil, one of the Communists who told me that 15,000 was a conservative estimate of the number of sure-enough fatalities.

Well, General della Piani won. Nevertheless, a ruckus of that size is no trifle. A ruckus can be excused for objecting to it.

Of late Argentina, Brazil and other South American republics have been referred to in the news dispatches as having been bothered by totalitarian activities in their various midsts.

I don't wonder. They don't want any more domestic incidents like Argentina's affair in the early 1920's.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A BLACKSTONE OFFICE

Back in 1924 when Attorney Edward J. Demson, of Cleveland, Ohio, was visiting in London, he took the time to browse through Middle Temple. There he felt the urge to look in on the law office of that most noted of 18th Century Jurists, Sir William Blackstone, which was preserved practically as left by the author of the "Commentaries."

Demson was impressed by the pegwood floor and oak paneled walls, the shelves where Blackstone had arranged his volumes for easy reference. The picture of that interior stuck in Demson's mind. He decided that some day he would duplicate that room. So today, he is having the finishing touches put on just such an office in the Society for Savings Building in Cleveland.

When Demson decided to carry out the plan he so long had treasured, he asked a London architect to send him a sketch of Blackstone's office. The sketch was turned over to Cleveland architects who followed it closely in drafting the detailed plans for Demson's office. Modern conveniences such as air-conditioning and soundproofing—and, of course, electric lighting—has been added, but without detracting from the Old World effect.

New Taxes Seem Sure

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. AT the moment, no sicker nor sadder idea can be found around Washington than that of those conservative and long-suffering Treasury heads, the Messrs. Morgenthau and Hanes, who some weeks ago—so it was reliably reported—felt that no new or onerous taxes would be necessary at this session.

WITH that view Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Finance Committee, was also in accord. And after consultation with the Treasury heads, he said so. The thought back of this no-new-taxes policy was that the vital thing for the country as a whole is to avoid checking the business recovery which seemed under way, and which certainly would be discouraged by new taxes. It will be recalled that the President appeared at least acquiescent in this theory and that the one open and vigorous dissenter was Mr. Marriner Eccles, head of the Federal Reserve Board, whose business it did not seem to be at all.

HOWEVER, in his latest press conference Mr. Roosevelt revealed how far away from the Morgenthau-Hanes position and toward that of the ubiquitous Mr. Eccles he has swung. "No new taxes! If the President holds to his present purpose and is not thwarted by Congress, there will be so many new taxes on so many new things that they will not be easy to enumerate. The plain fact is that the President is now expected to make new taxes the big demand in his financial message to be sent in the second week of January.

FOR one thing, it is now deemed certain that he intends to recommend an excess profits tax to offset the additional proposed $500,000,000 armament appropriation. That clashes directly with the original Treasury view. For another, it is understood to be his purpose to recommend increasing rates on incomes from $5,000 to $50,000. For another, he openly expresses interest in Secretary Wallace's new "certificate plan" which, when stripped of all camouflage amounts to a consumer's tax on food.

IN fact the President now appears to favor practically every form of new tax that has been suggested, excepting only the exceedingly sound proposal of broadening the tax base, which would add to the taxpaying classes some two million voters now exempt. The only conceivable reason for avoiding this is political. In addition, Mr. Roosevelt contends that Congress should levy taxes for the $500,000,000 appropriation against his recommendation last year for farm benefits. Congress promised to raise the revenue for this farm-lobby, forced appropriation, but failed to do so.

IN calling attention to this inexcusable omission the President is on sound ground. And in recommending new taxes to take care of increased expenditures, he is doing what his critics have insisted he should have done from the beginning. If in his 1940-41 budget he cuts Governmental expenses all along the line as it is now indicated he intends to do, and in addition urges new tax to take care of new armament appropriations, it is difficult to see how either Republicans or anti-New Deal Democrats can withhold support.

IT is what they have been howling for. They have insisted that every appropriation should be accompanied by its offsetting tax; that expenses must be reduced; that at least a start toward budget balancing must be made. They may denounce the President—and with reason—for reckless waste and unrestrained expenditures, which have (Continued On Page Five)

HOOVER-BENTEL WEDDING MONDAY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hoover, 599 Winter avenue, was the scene of a pretty Yuletide wedding on Monday noon, December 25, when their daughter, Ella Louise, became the bride of Howard J. Bentel of Ellwood City.

Standing amidst a holiday setting, with the brilliantly decorated tree in the background, the vows were exchanged in the presence of relatives and close friends numbering nearly 50. Dr. D. L. Ferguson, pastor of the Highland U. P. church, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white satin wedding gown, made with square neckline and full toe length skirt. Her veil, entrain, fell from a half crown of gardenias, and she carried an arm bouquet of the same flowers, combined with valley lilies. Miss Ina Mae Peterson, childhood chum of the bride, as her only attendant, was attired in a pink satin floor length gown, made almost identical to that worn by the bride, and her arm cluster was of Johanna Hill roses.

Joseph Thomas of Rochester, Pa., was best man.

Miss Marjorie Allen played the program of nuptial music, giving several selections preceding the entrance of the bride, and she played softly throughout the ceremony, appropriate numbers.

A wedding dinner followed the congratulatory period, with crystal and white predominating in the appointments. Later, the couple left for a few days trip, and in February will take an extensive journey to Europe. For traveling, the bride selected a black and white ensemble with matching accessories. Upon returning, they will take up residence at Ellport.

The bride, who has been connected with Neishers, is a graduate of the January class '39 of the local high school. The groom, a graduate of the Monroe high, is affiliated with the Shelby Tube of Ellwood City.

Guests from out of town attended from Monaca, Rochester, Ellwood City, Cleveland, O., Youngstown, O., and Sharon.

MYRTA-BOVARD CEREMONY QUIET

Miss Mary Myrta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Myrta of Lyndal street, and Arthur P. Bovard, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Bovard of Winslow avenue, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the study of the Third U. P. church, with Rev. Chester T. R. Yeates, pastor, officiating.

Attired in a sapphire blue velvet street length dress, with black accessories and a shoulder corsage of white roses, the bride had her cousin, Miss Stella Sniezek, as her only attendant. She was attired in a moss green velvet dress with brown accompaniments and her shoulder bouquet was of white roses.

Francis Doran served the groom as best man.

Supplementing the quiet ceremony a wedding luncheon was served at a prominent tea room downtown, and immediately following, the couple departed on an eastern motor trip. After the first of the year, they will be at home to friends at 941 Adams street.

The bride is associated with the National Pants Company of this locality and the groom is connected with the H. L. King Long Distance Hauling Company of New Castle.

McCOYS ENTERTAIN NIECES AT PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McCoy of 201 Englewood avenue entertained at a delightful party on Christmas Day. The occasion was held in honor of their nieces, Miss Cecilia McCoy and Mrs. Billy Herman, nee Julia McCoy, both daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Tom McCoy of 214 East North street. Following a delicious turkey dinner, the group whiled away the time most informally. Mr. Herman, who is prominently affiliated with Ben Bernie's famous band, New York City, attended the affair.

Miss McCoy, a professional dancer, who has been visiting with her parents, left early Christmas Day for Miami Beach, Fla., where she opens a four weeks' engagement on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Herman will spend a few more days with her parents before leaving for her New York home.

JUNIOR DEACONS TO HAVE PARTY FRIDAY

Annual banquet for the Junior Deacons of the First Christian church will be held Friday evening, in the church dining rooms.

According to members of the committee, a special speaker is being secured for the occasion. The event is being held at this time in order that those who are home on vacations from schools and colleges about the country might have an opportunity to attend.

Juanita Club

Mrs. C. Mayberry entertained in her home on the Graceland road during the week-end for members of the Juanita club at their Christmas party, which was in the form of a dinner party and a gift exchange.

Card prizes were won by Mrs. Dorothy Gaston, Mrs. John Black and Mrs. Ralph Higgins. Mrs. Roy Beals will be the next hostess at her home on Moody avenue.

BABY FOUND IN DRESSER DRAWER
(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 26.—The three-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Long was in a real crisis in children's hospital today instead of a dresser drawer as found by police, and his parents were held in county jail.

The Longs were charged with abandoning a minor child. The infant was found crying for food by Patrolman Albert Gans who testified he was called by neighbors to the Longs' rooming quarters. He said the mother was out all night and that Long was in no condition to care for the child.

MAJOR AIR BATTLE IN FOTORELIEF

This Central Press Fotorelief map depicts the area with suggested battle action of one of the greatest air conflicts of the war when a large British fleet of air raiders encountered a swarm of German defensive planes. Both sides claimed victory in the struggle which took place over the island of Sylt in the North Sea. Helgoland, where another widespread and prolonged air conflict occurred almost simultaneously, is also shown. At extreme right near the mouth of the Elbe river, Germany, may be seen a sinking German cruiser which the British claimed they sent to the bottom. Berlin denied this.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 26.—The controversy between Gov. James Col. F. C. Harrington, national WPA administrator, puts Col. Philip Matthews, WPA administrator for Pennsylvania, squarely in the middle of what threatens to be a long drawn out and increasingly bitter battle. The fact that the governor has directed his complaints directly to Matthews' boss makes Matthews' position all the more difficult.

Feeling as he does that Harrington is fully able to handle the situation adequately, Matthews has so far refrained from making a direct reply to the governor's bitter criticism of the WPA administration in Pennsylvania. "But I can stand so much and no more," he said. "I can say plenty myself if I have to."

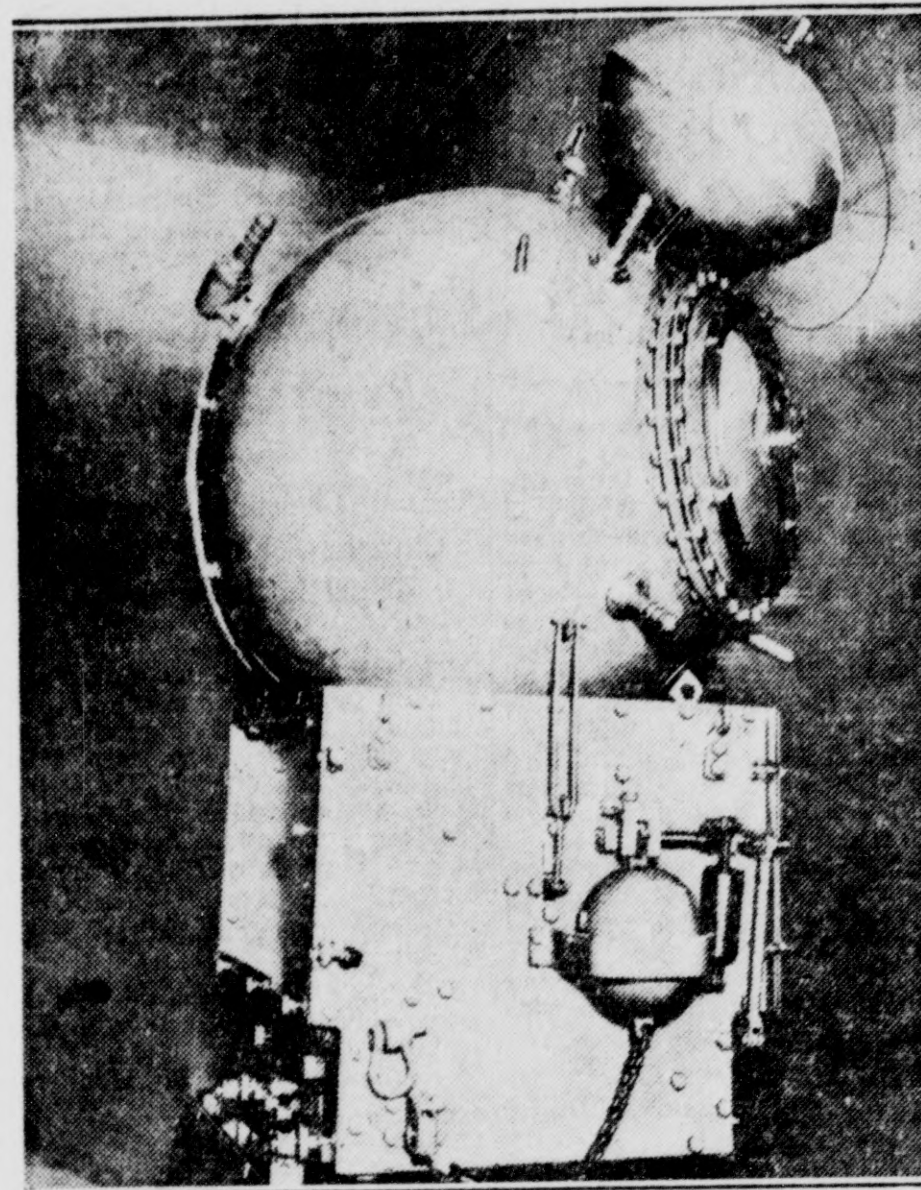

Matthews has already indirectly answered the governor with a promise to place 28,000 additional men to work provided the state or local communities sponsor or sufficient projects in the five counties in which the bulk of the employable men are available. "No one can talk to the state WPA administrator and leave without the conviction that he is honestly trying to bring the WPA quota in this state up to the 160,000 figure set by Washington, but finds himself unable to do so by circumstances outside his control. "If Philadelphia would only cooperate with us, it would be a simple matter," said Matthews.

Democratic leaders are preparing to meet soon in an attempt to agree upon a slate for endorsement by the Democratic state committee when it meets late in January or early February. The last meeting of the executive committee found itself at first unable to agree upon a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the state supreme court. Judge John H. McCann of Cambria county and former attorney General Guy K. Bard, contesting along with Dean Herbert F. Goodrich of the University of Pennsylvania law school. Bard and McCann withdrew their candidacies, however, in the interests of Harmony. "Now the Democrats would like, if possible, to reach unanimity of thought before the meeting."

If it be true that the Republican organization has decided not to endorse for the U. S. Senate a candidate from Western Pennsylvania, didate from the state appears to be the ultimate choice appears to be between Chief Justice John W. Epphart, who retires the first of the year from the supreme court, and Sen. G. Mason Owlett, Toiga, Senate majority leader. Owlett has the support of former Senator Grundy, more than ever now a power within the organization. The honor may go to Judge Epphart, who is viewed in certain quarters as a much stronger candidate. Owlett is a national committeeman, was defeated in the 1938 Republican primary by Sen. James J. Davis. His eyes are still focused, however upon the senatorial toga. Recently he conferred with Governor James over the senatorial prospects

A Closeup of Death

Here is the instrument of war which has wreaked havoc on world shipping, the mine. This is a standard British moored type, manufactured by Vickers-Armstrong. It is fitted with both a 100-foot antenna firing apparatus, attached to the float above mine, and the usual horns. Britain charges that Germany is using free-floating mines, sinking vessels indiscriminately. (Central Press)

Modern Kitchen At State College For Class Use

(International News Service)
STATE COLLEGE, Dec. 26.—So that co-eds studying home economics will be as familiar with an ultra-modern kitchen as they are with an "average" one, the Pennsylvania State College has opened a new up-to-the-minute kitchen equipped with 1939 models of practically all kitchen aids.
Students preparing practice meals in this streamlined kitchen will learn to use all the newer electrical appliances. These include refrigerator, dishwasher, waste disposal unit, range, ventilation exhaust fan, coffee percolator, sandwich grill, glass coffee brewer, toaster, waffle iron, and mixing machine. All of the units will be replaced as later models appear on the market.
Attractively decorated in blue, yellow, and burnt orange, the new kitchen has enameled steel cupboards, venetian blinds, indirect lighting and a planning desk and dinette set of metal and leather.

"In general, want this kitchen to be used by the girls who have never worked in an up-to-date kitchen," said Mrs. Elisabeth W. W. Dye, associate professor of home economics. "Girls who are familiar with the latest appliances will use the older practice kitchen."
"In this way all our graduates will have a background that will fit them for most any type of cuisine that their positions might take them into."
Another consideration—and this is a guiding factor in all the home economics instruction—is that practically all of the students become home-makers in their own right within five years after graduation. "Although few homes will be able to incorporate all the features found here," said Mrs. Dye. "This new kitchen will suggest ideas, arrangements, and available units useful in saving time and conserving energy for the homemaker."

Various nobles, during the middle ages, ground diamonds to powder and used them to poison their enemies. The lethal effect of such a powder is decidedly questionable, according to scientists, and what deaths, if any, occurred, are probably attributable to psychological effects plus other poisons that were given for good measure.

Asks Roosevelt Clarify Naming Of Myron Taylor

Wants To Know If Roosevelt Is Going To Pay Observer Out Of His Pocket

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 26.—Dr. Louis D. Newton, prominent Atlanta clergyman and an official of the World Baptist Alliance today awaited a reply to a letter to President Roosevelt, asking the president six questions relative to the appointment of Myron C. Taylor to work with the Vatican in the drive for world peace.

Dr. Newton requested that the president inform him whether or not Taylor's salary is to be "paid by you personally" or by the government; if by the government, whether there has been an enabling act authorizing such a payment passed by congress; whether the new representative is to go to the Vatican "as a religious body or as a political entity"; if as a political entity, whether or not congress has "recognized the Vatican as such"; if as a religious body, whether such an appointment is possible under the constitution and whether or not the president can make such an appointment "without thereby officially representing and involving the United States."

Appointment of Taylor as representative to the Vatican to work for world peace was announced Saturday by the president, and Dr. Newton said he was writing the president to seek fuller understanding of "this apparently unique policy."

Travelling Long Way To Get Back To His Homeland

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Traveling 10,000 miles to help his country in its fight against the Russians, Kaile Aapro, for 18 years Finnish consul at Rio De Janeiro, reached New York today on his way back to Finland.

One of the 100 passengers aboard the Uruguay of the American Republics line, Aapro, a World War veteran, has no doubts of the victory of his homeland.
"The Russians are much stronger than we, but we are better acclimated and know the terrain better," he said. "With all the rest of the world behind us, financially and morally, things will soon change for the better and in the end we will win."

Aapro's 25-year-old son is an aviator with the Finnish army, he said, and his two daughters are in the nursing service.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CANDIDNESS IN CHILDREN

Children usually have a natural faculty for being candid about things. It is a valuable trait and it shouldn't be discouraged. Rather, parents should try to train this honesty of expression by showing children how to be discriminating in their remarks and avoid offending persons by their remarks.

This is something we are having to contend with right now at our quintuplet nursery. When Annette, Cecile, Marie, Yvonne and Emilie are something they either like or dislike about anyone in the nursery, they speak right out about it. Some older people have never outgrown this childhood habit and as a result they go through life making enemies. Now we don't want the quints to do this, and neither do we want to bury this gift under falsehoods or even silence. So we are training them.

I first became aware of the girls' outspokenness a few weeks ago. I was wearing a rather glaring necktie. I had received it as a Christmas present a year ago, and I had never had the temerity to wear it before. Anyway, this day I had the tie on when I went to the nursery to see the children. The children greeted me, and then I saw them whispering together. Emilie was the spokesman, saying in French: "Doctor, where did you get that tie?"

I fingered the tie for a moment, and wondered what was coming next. All I said was: "Why?"

"We don't like it," Emilie replied with all the candor in the world.

Of course, their nurse was horrified and was going to reprimand them when I stopped her. I told the five little girls they were quite right, the tie didn't suit me a bit. I had quite a talk with my staff, too. I explained my ideas on the subject of showing children that candor and truthfulness were great virtues, but that no remarks that might hurt people's feelings should be made.

I think it was a good thing this happened to me when it did. I found out later that the children had begun criticizing one of their nurse's clothes. One evening a nurse came in to see them just as she was going out for an evening. She had on lipstick and rouge and nail polish, all the accoutrements of the modern woman.

Apparently, there was a real field day as the children told her she had too much make-up on, too much rouge and too much everything. The nurse was a bit annoyed, I guess, and the children saw it. Next day the whole five went into the school room, got some colored chalk and painted their faces and their nails grotesquely. Then they paraded out and walked back and forth in front of her.

Of course, this was another chance for us to speak to the children about not hurting people's feelings. I feel sure, though, that if my little incident hadn't happened first and I hadn't had that talk with the nurses, the children might have been reprimanded pretty severely.

We have a young woman who comes into the nursery occasionally to help with the house work. She is more than ordinarily plain, and the poor thing knows it. The other day she went to town and got herself a cheap permanent wave. Her hair was a sight and it made her look more homely than ever. But the little girl was proud of the hairdo. Or at least she was until the quints saw it and then they told her quite solemnly that her hair didn't look a bit nice.

They didn't do this maliciously; they just thought they were "telling what they thought about her appearance." Well, again we spoke to them, and explained how they had made the girl feel badly by criticizing her hair. Emilie was again the spokesman:

"But her hair was bad, doctor, I heard the nurse herself say it was terrible."

At least, we know the quints aren't talking about us behind our backs. What they say is right out on their faces. I am dressing more carefully, for I don't want them criticizing me again. Not that I can't take it, but I know their criticisms are usually right.

Deranged Monk Kills One And Wounds Himself

(International News Service)

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Dec. 26.—It appeared improbable today that criminal charges would be placed against a monk, who apparently deranged, shot and killed a fellow brother and wounded himself on Christmas Eve in the famed St. John's Abbey at Collegeville, near St. Cloud.

Shot fatally was brother Stanislaus Zaworski, about 55 years old. Brother Walter Stettler, 40, who wielded the gun, according to coroner M. J. Kern, was in a critical condition from a bullet wound in the chest.

According to the coroner, the shooting occurred during last Christmas eve prayers when Brother Walter appeared in a corridor of the Benedictine monastery shouting and brandishing a revolver. The monk came upon Brother Stanislaus and wounded him fatally, firing one shot into his chest before turning the gun on himself.

Coroner Kern said no inquest would be held into the shooting of the elder monk. He explained that Brother Walter, who had been at St. John's for several years, had been in poor mental condition for some time, the monk will be examined by psychiatrists if he recovers, the coroner said.

New Devices Are Developed To Aid Air Attack Defense

Three Devices Are Announced
By Col. Barnes, Army Ordnance Expert

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Three new devices to combat air attacks have been developed by the army in recent months, it was disclosed today in an article by Col. G. M. Barnes, army ordnance expert, prepared for the magazine "army ordnance."

These steps toward weakening the efficacy of warfare from the skies, are:

1. The new .30 caliber semi-automatic shoulder rifle has proved a valuable weapon against "hedge hopping" planes which hug the ground to strafe troops with machine gun fire.

2. The modern 37-MM anti-aircraft gun has been developed as the most effective weapon to protect front line positions against air attacks.

3. New sound locators have been developed which can spot a plane at night and throw an 800,000,000 candle power searchlight beam on it.

Barnes pointed out that the new shoulder rifle "can be fired two and a quarter times as fast as the Springfield rifle," and shows great promise in combatting low flying planes."

Dionnes Enjoy Christmas Toys

(International News Service)

CALLANDER, Ont., Dec. 26.—Thoroughly rested from their busy round of activity on Christmas Day, the five Dionne quintuplets played with the toys Santa Claus brought them today while expectantly awaiting the gay New Year's Day party at which they will play host to their parents and their brothers and sisters.

The five girls roused the nursery household at 5 o'clock Christmas morning as they awakened several hours ahead of schedule to see what Pere Noel had brought them.

They had a visit from Dr. Allan R. Dafoe who had presented them with the five sets of skates which they tried out with not much success on their private skating pond. Later, Papa and Mama Dionne and their seven brothers and sisters came for a brief visit. The quints were joined by their brothers and sisters for a brisk romp in the snow.

NEW DEAL SENATORS DIVIDED ON ISSUE

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Senator Bennett Champ Clark (D) of Missouri, who frequently has opposed Roosevelt policies, announced today he will battle for enactment of legislation continuing the administration's reciprocal trade agreements.

The determined stand of the Missouri senator, one of the leaders in the struggle against the supreme court reorganization bill last year, emphasized the extraordinary political and factional alignments growing out of the trade agreement battle.

Leaders in the fight against continuation, it was indicated, will include many Democratic New Deal senators who have gone down the line with President Roosevelt on nearly every other issue.

Criticism of the trade agreements now comes from such New Deal senators as Pepper (D) of Florida, Ashurst (D) of Arizona and Schwelmbach (D) of Washington.

Carrying on the fight of his late father, Speaker Champ Clark, against Republican tariff policies, Clark asserted that the reciprocal trade agreements "offer the best chance for the improvement both of international relations and the trade situation of any proposal yet made."

1939 Last Year Of Life For Many Famous Folk

Death removed from the world during 1939 many persons celebrated in various fields. Above are a dozen, best known to American newspaper readers, who succumbed during the year.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

We salute a couple of able-bodied seamen who found that America is still a land of opportunity. One is Raoul Graumont, a Frenchman, and the other is John Hensel, a Dane. Coming ashore here, they had their duffle bags and their luggage and that was about all. At their first try, they persuaded a citizen to put a $10,000 bet on them, and it looks as if they will sail home top-side and will be dishing the orders on shipboard, rather than taking them. Theirs is the new "Encyclopedia of Knots", a beautifully illustrated $10 book, the first of its kind ever written, already fudging up into the best-seller list for books of this price. In its 632 pages, with photographs of 3,216 examples of knots, ties, splices and the like, it ropes and hogs-ties everything that was ever known about tying knots, on land or sea, and it deftly weaves in concurrent history, with stories of Neolithic knots made of vines, the "sheet-bend" in the nets of the Stone Age, the decimal knot system of the Incas and the knot lore and skills of the North American Indians, the ancient Egyptians, Greeks and Romans.

The two visiting sailor boys with an idea dropped into the little book store of Felix M. Cornell, at 330 West 23rd street, New York. Mr. Cornell is a former sailing man—once an electrician in the navy. Out of a job, he had used the last of his savings to buy one hundred dollars' worth of books and set up a little store. The little store had come through to a nice solvent business, including the Cornell Maritime Press, Inc., which publishes books about navigation and the like.

I have observed that when sailors meet and one of them rattles a pair of cubes, the other will fade without any talk of frozen investments, murderous taxes or the like. So it was when the three tars got together in the little West 23rd street book shop. The visiting sailor told Mr. Cornell about their idea for a book and he put ten thousand dollars on the line. That, with the welter of six by eight photo-engravings, was what it cost to get out the book. All this before the lads had scarcely dropped their mud-hooks in this port.

It is a beautiful book. For a frontispiece, the lads put a nice rope border on Longfellow's poem "The Ropewalk". In their introduction they trace not only the historic origins of various forms of knots, but their folk lore and their poetry—the weavers' knots, builders' knots, and their associated superstitions and literary and religious derivations. Of the lover's knot, they write:

"The true lover's knot, while it has been mentioned repeatedly in early English literature, has never been identified with any particular knot known today. In one instance it is mentioned in an old English ballad, 'Fair Margaret and Sweet William', which was written in the 16th century or earlier.

The poem follows in the characteristically thorough manner of the authors, after the book begins to need a cargo hoist, with all they pack into it. With origins and history disposed of, they start you on a lifetime career of tying every known knot, with ample text and illustration, beginning with the primitive "clinch" and "hitches" and taking you on down to large ornamental designs, as beautiful and elaborate as a medieval tapestry.

It amazed this writer to discover how many people, in these dismal times, have ten dollars to spend on a book of knots. They include sailors, soldiers, surgeons, cowboys, weavers, builders, farmers, riggers, magicians, fishermen, both sporting and commercial, painters, yachtsmen, rope manufacturers, artists, designers, Camp Fire Associations, C. C. C. camps, Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops, vocational and art-craft schools, libraries, hobbyists, and collectors and a sprinkling of anthropologists. Just in passing, the little book shop caught the eye of Edgar Lee Master, who lives nearby and he and his literary cronies are beginning to make it their hang-out.

Walter Robuck of the losing team was the game's scoring star with eight double-doubles and two fouls for 13 points, followed by Bill Marshall with 16 points.

The bottom place Inspection five garnered its first victory of the season at the expense of the Cold Finish by the count of 38 to 37. Cold Finish took the lead 22 to 21 at half time and late in the last period with the count knotted 33 to 33. Friedhoff was top scorer with seven baskets and three fouls for 17 points.

FINNISH CITIZENS

ABLE TO LAUGH AT SOVIET PROPAGANDA

(International News Service) HELSINKI, Dec. 26.—Although involved in a desperate struggle against Russia, Finnish civilians were able today to summon up laughter and wise-cracks over leaflets dropped by Soviet planes in an attempt to weaken Finland's resistance.

The leaflets promised Finnish workers an eight-hour working day if the nation submits to Soviet control. The hitch here was that Finnish workers in peace time already enjoy an eight-hour day.

Summer holidays of two weeks duration also were promised by the Russians, who evidently were not aware that Finnish workers customarily have a three-week vacation.

BUDGET WILL NOT BE BALANCED

By GRIFTING BANCROFT JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Fiscal matters occupied the center of the legislative and executive stage today as the capital settled back to work after the Christmas weekend. At the White House budgetary experts were summoned for last minute conferences with President Roosevelt to whip the nation's spending program into shape. On capital hill, meanwhile, legislators were returning after the holidays. Democratic chiefs came to confer with the president over possible new taxes and members of the economy bloc to lay plans for an attempt to curtail expenditures.

The budget, which will detail proposed expenditures and revenues for the federal government for the fiscal year starting July 1, is slated to go to the printer by Thursday. Its contents will be officially announced by the president soon after congress reconvenes Jan. 3.

It was conceded that Mr. Roosevelt, for the eighth time, will announce that his budget cannot be balanced. The 1941 estimates will call for expenditures of about $3,000,000,000 in excess of expected income.

This budget, it was admitted, will bring the eight-year total of New Deal deficiencies to $25,000,000,000. When this is added to the $21,000,000,000 Roosevelt "inherited" national debt of previous administrations the nation will be over the $45,000,000,000 ceiling set by law for the national debt.

Christmas
(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 26.—A Christmas Day collision between an automobile and a street car brought Pittsburgh's death toll for 1939 up to 89 victims today.
Fifteen other persons were injured in numerous accidents over the city.
William N. Childers, 27, and Ruth Bennett, 40, a divorcee, both employees of a Pittsburgh chain restaurant, were killed in the city's Christmas tragedy. Their car smashed head-on into a street car in east Liberty, snuffing out their lives instantly.
Miss Bennett's son, Paul Bennett, 20, who had been sleeping in the rear seat of the car, was injured seriously. The street car motor-man, R. F. Greneman, 32, was treated at a hospital for a bruised ankle.
None of the passengers on the trolley car were hurt.
Police said Childers' car was on the wrong side of the street at the time of the accident and was wrecked completely by the impact.

Joe Louis Is Top Fighter

Billy Conn Is Rated Second To Louis, Louis Top Fighter For Three Years

CONN IS PICKED CLASSIEST FIGHTER

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Joe Louis today is more or less officially established as the greatest fighter of these days—in case anybody doubted it. He has been proclaimed the fighter of the year in the annual award made by the ring magazine, and with that the heavyweight champion becomes the first man ever to win this honor three times in a dynasty that goes back to 1928 when Gene Tunney was picked. Since then Tommy Loughran earned the rating twice, Barney Ross tied once and was picked another time, and the rest, save Louis, made one-year stands. The Bomber held the honors in 1936 and 1938, besides this year.

Louis Again Tops
In 1937, Louis was displaced from the peak by virtue of his knockout at the hands of Max Baer, the previous summer, otherwise he would have sewed the thing up four years in a row and as far into the future as anybody can see from this point.

Rated next to him in the ring poll of experts from all over the world is Billy Conn, of Pittsburgh, the light heavyweight champion, who recently was voted the New York boxing writers award as the fighter who had contributed most to boxing during the year. Tony Galento, the old Jersey heavyweight who floored Louis last summer only to be knocked out, was ranked next, then came Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight, followed by lesser lights in various divisions.

Louis earned his place for an obvious reason—his record for the year, which shows one round knockout over John Henry Lewis and Jack Roper, a four-round knockout over Galento and an 11-round knockout over Pastor.

The opposition wasn't much, to be sure, but it was the best to be had.

Fighters Classified
Louis shares in other superlatives passed out for the year, too, the ring magazine having compiled these items:

Year's most punishing fighter—Louis; best drawing cards, Louis and Conn; year's shortest championship

SEVERAL FIRES Over Christmas

Wiring To Christmas Decorations Causes Blaze Monday Afternoon

Several fires were reported over the holiday period, none of them of any serious consequence.

What might have resulted in a serious blaze occurred at the home of Oliver G. Hoch, of 1111 Wilmington avenue, Christmas afternoon at 4:14 o'clock, when a short in the wiring to Christmas decorations in a front window of the home set fire to the curtains. Mr. Hoch had gone to the basement to look at the furnace and when he came upstairs, found the curtains ablaze. He received burns of the hands when he tore the curtains loose from their rods and hurled them out onto the front porch. Damage of around $100 resulted, covered by insurance.

Mr. Hoch and passersby had the fire extinguished when firemen arrived on the scene in response to telephone calls.

At 6:05 p. m. Monday, firemen were called to the home of Charles R. Campbell, of 913 Dewey avenue, where a stove in the garage became overheated. Damage of around $25 was done.

Two calls were answered to the home of W. V. Ferris, of 20 South Front street, Sunday, one at 10:27 a. m. and the other at 1:40 p. m., when sparks from a defective chimney set fire to the joists in two different places. The total damage was around $25.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

Well, we hope that everyone had a Merry Christmas and that you are all able to be up and about today... Let's keep the feeling of good fellowship going throughout the year. We really have something to think about here in the United States.

It doesn't pay to buy out-of-town when the article you want can be bought right from your local merchant. That was proven the other day when one family did their shopping out of town and before they returned home the entire purchase was stolen. We however feel sorry salesmen and stores... we agree it is sometimes necessary... but necessity doesn't arise every day.

Just a moment for a pause... Last Friday night the police were on their toes and caught a prowler in a downtown business house. We do at times, rather ride certain departments, but we sure like to find the opportunity to praise the same departments... in fact it makes us feel much better when we can say kind things... so here's to the police today.

If you think you're beaten, you are; If you think you dare not, you don't; If you want to win, but you think you can't, It's almost a cinch that you won't.

If you think you'll lose, you're lost, For out in the world you will find Success begins with a fellow will—It's ALL in the state of mind.

If you think you're out-clashed, you are, You've got to think high to rise; You've got to be sure of yourself before You can ever win a prize.

Life's battles don't always go To the stronger or faster man, But sooner or later, the one who wins Is the one who THINKS he can.

Stock Market Range Narrow

General Price Average Is Shade Lower In Day's Early Trading

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The stock market today continued dominated by holiday influences, with leaders holding in a narrow and irregular price range throughout the forenoon. The general price average was a shade lower.

Returning from the long Christmas week-end, traders found no appreciable change in the speculative picture and were content to hold side-line positions. Taking note of the fact there were but three five-hour and one two-hour sessions left in 1939 after today, Wall Street anticipated little change from the recent listless market trend.

Sales in the first hour were limited to 150,000 shares, indicating a full-day of 600,000 shares or less. Steel output this week is expected to reflect holiday shut-downs, but observers pointed to a less than expected seasonal decline in steel buying. Lumber orders for the week ended December 16 were reported the heaviest in eight weeks and 10 per cent ahead of the preceding week. Retail Christmas business, according to early reports, was considered satisfactory.

In one big heap here is all the food you'll eat next year if, according to U. S. States department of agriculture, you are an average eater. Table of the average annual consumption of the foods pictured above is given at the left, above. Jack Bivens, of the Junior Vegetable Growers association, convening in Chicago, is shown gazing with consternation—and some anticipation—at the size of his 1940 "meal." It's enough for 1,098 meals—three a day.

A Masterpiece Painted by Mars

With all the beauty of blended light and shadow in a fine lithograph this dramatic photograph depicts nightfall in Helsinki. Though the nightly blackout has brought darkness to most of the Finnish capital the lurid glare of burning buildings may be seen in the background.
